

Commentary

Our work continues

By Betty Rosa
Regents Chancellor

As we enter the new school year, I am excited to see the work we have done over the past year. The work we have done is not just about the numbers, but about the quality of our schools. We have made significant progress in many areas, including student achievement, teacher effectiveness, and school safety. We have also made important investments in our infrastructure and technology. We are proud of the progress we have made, and we are committed to continuing our work to ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed.

As the new school year begins, we will continue to focus on these key areas. We will continue to work with our state and local partners to improve our schools and our education system. We will continue to invest in our teachers and our students, and we will continue to work to ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed. We are committed to our work, and we are confident that we will continue to make significant progress in the years ahead.

The work we have done is not just about the numbers, but about the quality of our schools. We have made significant progress in many areas, including student achievement, teacher effectiveness, and school safety. We have also made important investments in our infrastructure and technology. We are proud of the progress we have made, and we are committed to continuing our work to ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed.

As the new school year begins, we will continue to focus on these key areas. We will continue to work with our state and local partners to improve our schools and our education system. We will continue to invest in our teachers and our students, and we will continue to work to ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed. We are committed to our work, and we are confident that we will continue to make significant progress in the years ahead.

The work we have done is not just about the numbers, but about the quality of our schools. We have made significant progress in many areas, including student achievement, teacher effectiveness, and school safety. We have also made important investments in our infrastructure and technology. We are proud of the progress we have made, and we are committed to continuing our work to ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed.

As the new school year begins, we will continue to focus on these key areas. We will continue to work with our state and local partners to improve our schools and our education system. We will continue to invest in our teachers and our students, and we will continue to work to ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed. We are committed to our work, and we are confident that we will continue to make significant progress in the years ahead.

Regents Chancellor Betty Rosa visits PS 69 in the Bronx on the first day of school.
Photo courtesy of the State Education Department